

Minimal Job Control

What to look out for:

Lack of personal control having inadequate say over how work is done.

This may look like:

Staff feeling they do not have a say in their work

Staff feeling they do not have a say in changes

Staff not given the opportunity to provide feedback on work

Staff not given the opportunity to provide feedback on processes

Who can I tell: Reporting process

In the first instance, speak to your supervisor or manager, HR or WHS personnel.
